

DNP SELECT INCOME FUND ANNOUNCES REVISED NET ASSET VALUE INFORMATION

CHICAGO, September 1, 2015 – DNP Select Income Fund Inc. (DNP) announced today that the net asset value (NAV) reported each day last week was incorrect due to a technical malfunction experienced by its fund accounting agent, The Bank of New York Mellon (BNYM). Over 1,000 funds that are serviced by BNYM using the SunGard InvestOne system were affected by this malfunction, which has since been resolved. During the service outage, the daily NAV was manually calculated. All NAVs have since been system-generated by the InvestOne system. The table below shows the manually calculated and system-generated NAVs for last week. NAV per share does not represent the market price at which an investor may trade shares of DNP on the NYSE or other exchange. The market prices on these dates remain unchanged.
